

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The invention provides plasma display panel technique that is operated with a low voltage and reduced power consumption, and exhibits high luminous efficiency and high luminance. A barrier plate comprises a metal electrode having a projection that projects partially toward the cell space side between display electrodes formed so that the display electrodes intersect with an address electrode in a plane approximately parallel to the panel plane.

10
20
30
40
50
60
70
80
90
100
110
120
130
140
150
160
170
180
190
200
210
220
230
240
250
260
270
280
290
300
310
320
330
340
350
360
370
380
390
400
410
420
430
440
450
460
470
480
490
500
510
520
530
540
550
560
570
580
590
600
610
620
630
640
650
660
670
680
690
700
710
720
730
740
750
760
770
780
790
800
810
820
830
840
850
860
870
880
890
900
910
920
930
940
950
960
970
980
990